Parenting Arrangements Addendum

General educational example • Local legal review required

A worksheet for proposed parenting arrangements to discuss with qualified local advisers. It is not a standalone court parenting plan and does not replace an existing order or determine legal custody or child support.

Spouse A and contact address [Enter details]

Spouse B and contact address [Enter details]

Jurisdiction and preparation date [Enter details]

Relevant court orders or earlier agreements [Identify dates and references; attach securely where appropriate]

Use descriptions or partial account identifiers in working copies. Keep sensitive supporting records private. Do not sign an incomplete form. Each spouse should have a separate opportunity to obtain independent legal advice.

1. Children and applicable arrangements

Children covered [Names or initials and ages; keep sensitive details private]

Existing orders and pending proceedings [Court, date and reference; identify limits that affect the proposal]

Relevant needs and practical constraints [School, health, accessibility, distance or other considerations]

2. Proposed schedule and communication

Schedule item	Proposed arrangement
School week and weekends	[Days, times and locations]
School breaks, holidays and special dates	[Alternation, notice and priority]
Exchanges and transport	[Who, where, when and costs]
Changes, missed time and travel	[Notice, consent and required documents]

Routine and urgent communication [Methods, contacts, response expectations and emergency information]

School, health and activity decisions [Proposed responsibilities; check legal authority and existing orders]

Child-related costs and support [Identify separate calculation, payment and review requirements]

Treat these entries as proposals for local review. A court may apply mandatory requirements and the child’s interests. Where contact or joint planning is unsafe, obtain appropriate local advice before using a shared schedule.

3. Review of the proposal

Disagreements and missing information [List unresolved points without implying agreement]

Review date and adviser / court steps [Who will obtain advice or submit required documents, and when]

Local review and unresolved questions

Issues still requiring advice or documents [List each open issue and the person responsible for the next step]

This example does not grant a divorce or court order, override an existing order, bind a creditor, transfer title, or automatically waive support, inheritance or retirement rights. Check required disclosures, formalities and any court or third-party process in the relevant jurisdiction.
